New Killebrew Store Holds Opening Today

The new store building of Killebrews Ideal Market at 4984 Voltaire street, has been completed and the first of the week the proprietors were busy moving their stock from the old location across the street to the new and enlarged quarters.

The present store is a modern open front market with 42-feet frontage and 50 feet deep. A roomy structure with all new shelving for appropriate display and easy access for the customers.

A picture of the new market together with congratulations of other Voltaire street establishments and interested friends and business associations will be found on page 8. Also the announcement by the store of their grand opening which is now in progress.

Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Killebrew are to be congratulated on the progress they have made in building a paying business since they bought the old Boston Grocery some three years ago and we are sure their customers will continue to grow in numbers.

The meat department of Killebrews Market is having new and modern equipment installed. It will be operated by James B. Cope who has conducted a similar department of the Loma Food Store at Loma Portal for a year or more past.

ANOTHER OLD TIMER GOES TO REST

On Sunday, November 10, Reuben Thomas Marshall, 79, beloved husband of Jane Marshall and father of Winifred Smith and Walter Marshall, passed away. Deceased had suffered some time from a bad heart.

Also left to mourn are: Fanny Small, Nellie Dalzell, Ruby Collins, daughters; and Fred Marshall, son, all of Edmonton, Alberta, Canada; Nora Walford, daughter, Victoria, Vancouver, Canada; Edward Marshall, son, Placentia, Calif.; and 17 grandchildren and 7 great grandchildren.

Mr. Marshall came from England to Canada in 1907, and from there to Ocean Beach in 1920. He and Mrs. Marshall had been married 57 years, and have had many ups and downs in life, but since coming to Ocean Beach they have walked down the hill together in peace and happiness. For the last two years, Mr. Marshall has been missed from Mission bridge, where he spent many happy hours in fishing.

The funeral service was held Thursday morning at Bonham Bros. mortuary, with Doctor John Bunyan Smth, pastor of the First Baptist church of San Diego officiating.

MISSION GORGE ROAD RECEIVES ALLOTMENT

Word was received Tuesday that the plans for a good road up Mission valley goes steadily ahead and that WPA funds had been allocated in amount of $102,572 to widen existing and construct new road, to construct two 30 foot steel 1-beam bridges and four reinforced concrete culverts.

The improvements when completed will give State College and the North Shore beach district much more direct route and avoid traffic of University avenue and El Cajon B.

City Has Soundings Made at Sunset Cliffs

A regular meeting of Ocean Beach chamber of commerce was held Monday evening with a letter read from the city manager regarding fire insurance rates here, also copies of correspondence Harry W. Berdie, co-ordinator federal state projects, to Senator Ed Fletcher and replies thereto. A letter from the state attorney general's office with information for excluding any portion of an incorporated city from that city. A letter from the San Diego chamber of commerce requesting information regarding special events at the beach during 1936. A letter from the Ocean Beach post American Legion regarding their Safe Drivers club. Letters from J. Walter Lockewood, Ocean Park, California, who was seeking a location outside the earthquake fault lines.

A report was made by fishing pier committee that the city had just completed soundings in the ocean off Sunset Cliffs where they had found better location for a pier, in that deeper water could be reached in a short distance and that natural fishing grounds in the kelp beds would be ideal for a pier location. There was no objection by the body against location of a pier at Sunset Cliffs park.

J. L. HICKLIN TELLS OF EARLY FLYING IN SAN DIEGO

Rollin Reed was chairman of the day at Kiwanis luncheon Wednesday, having as guest speaker Jack L. Hicklin, officer of the First National bank of San Diego and chairman of the aviation committee San Diego Chamber of Commerce.

Hicklin told of his interest in aviation since he was a boy. That he saw his first airplane about 1909, two years later saw Glenn Curtiss make his famous first flight with a seaplane which took off from the Spanish bight at North Island. He started flying in 1929 and had made one and one-half hours solo time when he went up with an inexperienced friend who turned a nose dive at 900 feet with the result that a new plane was destroyed and both men spent many months in the hospital, however, this did not dampen his ardor for the air and he has continued his interest in aviation as a private citizen and for pleasure only. He now has his own plane and thoroly enjoys journeys about the state.

The speaker said San Diego was mighty fortunate in securing the Consolidated Aircraft Corporation factory and that two other concerns were now considering locating here. He believed that San Diego was just at the beginning of a period when the aviation industry was going to benefit this section as no enterprise has done before and he was most enthusiatic regarding its future.

LOCAL TOWNSEND CLUB TO HEAR MRS. SIDNEY SCOTT

Monday evening, November 18, at 7:30 the Ocean Beach Townsend club will hold their regular meeting and urge all members and friends to be present. Mrs. Sidney Scott of San Diego, who attended the Chicago convention will report on the proceedings there and tell of future plans.

MORENA BLVD. TO CONNECT WITH PACIFIC HIGHWAY

The city council in session Tuesday ordered plans drawn for a connecting link 80 feet wide to be made on Jellett street, which will prove a boon to Morena blvd., formerly highway 101, and the Old Town area which became more or less isolated upon the completion of Pacific blvd.

The work was recommended by the city manager and the city planning commission, it is said, and truly is a good move and will reestablish to quite a degree values of that area which necessarily took a decided slump when they were cut off the main travel thoroughfare.

BERDIE GOES TO WASHINGTON FOR MISSION BAY FUNDS

Word was received by Senator Fletcher, Wednesday that Harry W. Berdie, coordinator federal projects, left on Tuesday for Washington, D. C., particularly in regard to Mission Bay appropriations on WPA work.

Make Reservations For PTA Card Party

To sally forth to the Thursday club on Wednesday evening at 7:30 will mean that one is to enjoy a smart social event while adding to the Point Loma Parent-Teacher student welfare fund. The party is to be a dessert bridge but other games will be provided for those who do not care to play cards. Mrs. J.M. Chesebrough has been appointed general chairman by Mrs. W. C. Bryant, president of the unit.

There will be smart table decorations planned by Mrs. Chas Watson and her committee; Mesdames Chester Bradbeer, Clarence Williams, Roscoe Porter, and Forest Wolden. Attractive table prizes have been selected by Mrs. Bryant and Mrs. Chesebrough. Several door prizes will be given also. Bridge and other games will be played. A palmist of local renown will read fortunes in a gay gypsy tent.

Guests will be assisted in finding their tables by Mrs. Fred Hage and the usherers; Mesdames Chas. Watson, Roger McKay, Chas. Marsden, Florence Everingham, Forest Walden, Clem Stose, Robert Thompson and Robert Lush.

Mrs. Chas. Tupper will be assisted in serving the desert, at 7:30 o'clock by Mesdames Chas. Sieck, J. G. Driscoll, jr., Claire Seely, Jay D. Conner, W. K. Brown and A. J. Sutherland.

Mrs. Florence Everingham, who has an enviable reputation as a candy maker, will make the candy to be sold during the evening. She will have the assistance of Mrs. Paul Wolcott.

Ocean Beach Grammar School News

OPEN HOUSE

At the PTA meeting held Wednesday, November 13 in the school auditorium Bill Bryans, the school bugler, called the visitors from the class-rooms where Open House was being held for the PTA meeting. David Page played two solos which were: "Souvenir" by Drudley, and "Elegy" by Massene.

A large group of parents thought along line of what the social studies mean today as they visited class rooms and listened to an informal talk by the principal, Miss Martha T. Farnum. Community singing and a regular business meeting of the PA were included in the program.

VISITED EXPOSITION

The high six grade attended the Exposition on Wednesday, Nov. 6.

The itinerary of their journey included a trip to the Palace of Education the Travel and Transportation building, the Wells-Fargo exhibit, and finally the Globe theatre. The students gained a great deal of inspiration from the exhibits, but were most impressed by the Globe theatre, where they saw a performance of the "Taming of the Shrew."

STUDYING HIGH SIERRAS

The 4B-4A room under Mrs. Schilling's direction is about to take off on a tour of the High Sierras.

The class is studying recreational life in California as their social science study, and of course winter sports in the Sierras is an important part of this subject. The beaches, desert, and many other spots of interest will be visited in fancy by the class.

MINIATURE HARBOR

Mrs. Karl's second graders have almost completed a minature harbor against a painted background which is typical of San Diego's ships, airplanes, and seagulls.

A large model ship of the "California" was loaned to the class by Jimmie Rodgers which was to show the comparison with other ships. The youngsters are also presenting a display of varied hand-work; articles of wood, clay, dolls, and pot holders.

MAKING POSTER

The 6B grade in Miss Shea's room are working on a poster for "Book Week." Bill Banfield, Tom Padgitt, Charlotte Oberholser, Robert Decker, Mildred Lee and Maxine Kvach are making different parts.

Mrs. Decker kindly loaned an interesting piece of tapestry to the room to be displayed this week in connection with the Globe theatre play, which the class presents this Friday.

MEXICO

The children in the low fourth grade in Miss Neal's room have been studying Mexico for the past six weeks. These students have learned something of the country, its people, habits and customs.

During the activity period a Mexican Market has been built, in which pottery of various types, straw baskets, horses figures, and wooden jumping jacks are displayed. The Mexican display in the California Tower building at the Exposition afforded the inspiration for this unit of work.

The committee which built this market were: Lawrence Purdy, Jimmie MacFaden. Paul Lawrence. Albert Smith, Ralph Chadwick, Tom Mueller. Robert Cooper, Rodney Marshall, Buddy Peterson, Russell Benson, and John McCaffrey.

Mexican dolls are being made by a committee of girls consisting of Montez Nielens. Melba Noorda. Patricia Weatherbeen, Lois Titlow. Eileen Campbell. Betty Johnston, Alice Harris and Gloria Lohman.

MASONS AND STAR CLUB DANCE SET FOR NOVEMBER 23.

Point Loma Masonic club together with the Point Loma Star club will give a dance Saturday evening, November 23, to which Masons, Eastern Stars and their immediate friends or relatives are invited.

Greeks Recall George to the Throne

GEORGE of Greece is once more king. The plebiscite resulted in his recall by a huge majority, and before long the monarch will be back on the throne he abdicated 12 years ago. The vote in favor of the restoration was almost unanimous, even in Crete, the birthplace of the republican leader Venizelos who is now in exile and under sentence of death.

King George II

As the results of the balloting came in, Premier George Kondylis appeared on a balcony of a government building and announced: "As of tomorrow, King George II will be king of the Hellenes. There will be no political parties. They have been broken up by the people themselves and a new epoch of reconstruction will start.

"It's more glorious than I'd imagined. The expression of popular will to favor restoration was foreseen but results exceeded all expectations."

The cabinet met to swear a new oath of allegiance to the exiled monarch. All armed forces were called to take a similar oath.

A delegation sailed aboard a Greek warship to present the official request for King George to return. Officials said they expected King George, who was in London, to come back within two weeks.

China Adopts Managed Paper Currency

CHINA has suddenly abandoned the metallic silver currency standard, adopted a managed paper currency and otherwise reformed its monetary system. The four-point program was announced in Shanghai by Finance Minister H. H. Kung just after Vice President Garner and his party of congressmen had left the city for Manila.

The American party was entertained by high Chinese officials, including Kung. But, despite much oratory of the hands across the sea character, no hint was given of China's contemplated action. However, all English language newspapers in Shanghai carried long interviews with Senator William H. King of Utah and Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, both of whom practically told China that it "was not any of her business what America did about silver," and predicted the continuance of United States purchases until the price of silver has reached $1.29 an ounce.

The new Chinese program provides for: 1. Nationalization of silver. 2. Restriction of bank note issues to three government owned banks. 3. Stabilization of the Chinese dollar at the present level. 4. Legalization of bank notes for payment of all debts which provide for payment in silver.

Reds Are Not Blamed for Attack on Premier Wang

BELIEF of the Chinese police that the attempt to assassinate Premier Wang Ching-wei was part of a communist plot was decried by the foreign office at Nanking.

The theory was widely held, however, that the gunman, Sun Feng-min, who died of bullet wounds inflicted by the premier's bodyguard, acted because of his anti-Japanese feelings. The premier whose condition was announced as "satisfactory," was considered friendly toward Japan.

At Peiping, the political council ordered its subordinate agencies in North China to put down any group which endangers friendly Sino-Japanese relations. The council is controlled by generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, military leader of the Nationalist government.

Germany Plans Extension Toward the East

GERMANY has no designs on western Europe, but she does intend to promote her expansion in the Baltic states, and hopes later to divide the Ukraine with Poland. That is the substance of assertions made by Pertinax and Genevieve Tabouis, two of the leading political writers of the Paris press. They say Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, minister of finance, revealed these plans to Jean Tannery, president of the Bank of France, and Montagu Norman, president of the Bank of England, at a recent meeting of the Bank of International Settlement at Basel, Switzerland.

Schacht, the writers say, exhorted the two financiers to act with Germany "in the financial field" to end the Italo-Ethiopian conflict as soon as possible. He is reported to have warned them that sanctions against Italy would lead to "the economic dislocation of Europe, ruin the lira and ruin even the pound sterling."

Neutralization of Gibraltar May Be Demanded by Italy

WHEN the nations get together in London in December for the next naval conference it is not likely they will be able to agree on much in the way of limitation of naval armament. But there is a good prospect that Italy will there demand the neutralization of the straits of Gibraltar, which would be extremely distasteful and perhaps embarrassing to Great Britain. Diplomats are certain the British would refuse to make the concession. They say Mussolini's purpose is to force Britain to declare her intentions in the Mediterranean, where a large part of her war fleet is massed at the present time.

It was reported in Paris that the Duce would ask that the straits be put in the same status as the Suez canal, and would offer to scrap two 35,000 ton battleships now under construction as an evidence of his good faith. Britain hopes France will support her attitude concerning this demand and in return may agree to take a larger percentage of exports from French Morocco to strengthen France's position in that colony. French naval experts said that, while neutralization of the straits would guarantee free passage for France for all time, yet "it would be better to have a strong British hold on Gibraltar" in case France got in a war with Germany and was faced with the prospect of German submarines entering the Mediterranean to ravage her commerce and stop transport of troops from north African possessions.

Sanctions Against Italy in Effect November 18

THE League of Nations set November 18 as the day on which the economic sanctions against Italy should be put into effect, and later decided that coal, iron and oil should be included in the embargo. The league appointed Premier Laval of France and Sir Samuel Hoare, British foreign minister, to carry on peace negotiations with Italy. Sir Samuel still insisted any peace must be within the framework of the League.

The Italian armies on the northern front pushed further into Ethiopia, following the tanks and with bombing planes active overhead, and one column entered the city of Hauzien on the way to Makale. The invaders met with no resistance of consequence. The government at Addis Ababa announced that Italian planes had killed 30 women, 15 children and 100 cows with bombs and machine gun fire at Gorahei.

Emperor Haile Selassie Celebrates Anniversary

WHILE the invading Italians were pushing further and further into his realm, Emperor Haile Selassie I of Ethiopia celebrated the fifth anniversary of his coronation, and he did it in fine style, too. Escorted by a throng of feudal chiefs in barbaric atire, the king of kings and his queen passed through the streets of Addis Ababa amid wildly cheering thousands, and gave thanks to God in St. George's cathedral. Afterward, seated on his ivory and teakwood throne in the palace, he received the felicitations of the chieftains and the diplomatic corps. In the afternoon Haile gave the soldiers a great feast of raw meat, and in the evening he entertained the diplomats and nobles at a state banquet with golden service and rare wines.

Emperor Haile Selassie

The emperor holds that the big oil concession negotiated for American interests by F. M. Rickett, the English promoter, still holds good although the Americans relinquished it at the suggestion of Secretary Hull. "This concession," said Haile, "is an integral part of our national economic program. We purposely granted it to a neutrol country like the United States in order to avoid political complications and international jealousies. It is unfortunate that war must delay its fullfilment. Through the benefits accruing to this concession we hope to raise the social level of people and provide them with honorable remunerative employment.

"I am sure that when our country is again at peace, and the circumstances are propitious, all the terms of the enterprise will be carried out by the original concessionaires, who never canceled the concession, but merely withdrew temporarily at the suggestion of the State department for the worthy motive of promoting international peace."

Milwaukee "Fiend" Killed by His Own Bomb

MILWAUKEE, which had been terrorized for eight days by a succession of mysterious dynamitings, was relieved when the terrorist, Hugh Frank Rutkowski, was blown up by his own bomb as he was preparing for another outrage. Unfortunately a little girl was killed by the same blast. The bomber, described by the chief of police as "an extreme low type of individual with a warped, criminal mind," had at least one accomplice who may also have been blown to pieces by the explosion.

Two-Year Program for Corn-Hog Production

AFTER a conference with agricultural specialists and representatives of farmers, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace announced that a two year program for corn and hog producers had been determined upon, the main features of which are:

1. Prevention of an excessive production of corn in 1936 and 1937.

2. Allowance of an increase in next year's pig crop that would be at least as great as it is estimated would take place were no adjustment program in effect.

3. Prevention of an excessive increase in the 1937 pig crop.

Maximum and minimum hog production requirements will be imposed under the new contract particularly to prevent regional dislocations in production next year, according to AAA officials who said such "dislocations" would be certain to develop because of maladjustments in feed supplies and hog numbers brought about by the 1934 drouth. The maximum and minimum requirements have not been determined.

The new contract will require that an area at least equal to the number of acres withdrawn from production of corn be added to the usual area of the farm devoted to soil-improving and erosion-preventing uses. This requirement was a part of the 1934 corn-hog contract but was relaxed when the drouth come.

Corn Loan of 45 Cents Announced by Wallace

CONTINUING the administrations' policy of "enabling farmers to market their crop in a more orderly fashion," Secretary of Agriculture Wallace announced a corn loan of 45 cents a bushel on the 1935 crop, available from December 1 until next July 1. The Commodity Credit corporation had already approved this and asked a commitment from the RFC to provide the necessary funds.

Wallace estimated that about $150,000,000 would be advanced to corn growers under this program. Borrowers must sign the AAA corn-hog control contracts. The loans will be made on corn which, if shelled, would grade No. 3 or better. The grade requirement last year called for was No. 4. The loan rate then was 55 cents.

Tugwell's Budget Talk Displeases President

REXFORD G. TUGWELL, undersecretary of agriculture and once considered head man of the "brain trust," made a speech at Los Angeles the other day that called forth a sharp rebuke from President Roosevelt. Addressing a Democratic gathering, Tugwell asserted that the administration could satisfy every humanitarian demand and still balance the budget in 1938.

R. G. Tugwell

Mr. Roosevelt, in a press conference scolded the newspapers for printing what he called "crazy stories" and went on to declare that Tugwell's assertion was almost as unfounded as the predictions thrown out by many political observers that the budget probably would never be balanced again. Tugwell's statement wasn't quite as "wild" as the newspaper stories, he remarked, because Tugwell knew a little more about the budget than the newspaper men.

The President said he and his advisers were about to make a study of the financial situation, and that until the budget is finally drafted about the first of the year not even he knows what shape it will take. Every effort, he said, would be made to hold the regular government departments down to the figures of this fiscal year, but he would make no predictions as to emergency expenditures.

Carnegie Medals Awarded for Heroic Actions

MEDALS were awarded by the Carnegie hero fund commission to 47 men and children of the United States and Canada, or to their relatives in 11 cases. Most of the awards are for rescues of persons from drowning.

Two silver medals were awarded and 45 bronze. The silver ones went to James C. Martin, fifty-one-year-old Joplin (Mo.) laborer and Christine Stewart, thirty-five, of Brookline, Mass. Martin went into a sewage pit trying to save a fellow worker. Both drowned. Miss Stewart leaped into the sea near Bar Harbor, Me., in an attempt to save Emily McDougall, thirty-one. Rescuers pulled them out 40 minutes later. Miss McDougall died. Cash awards totaling $7,000 for educational purposes accompanied the medals in 14 cases, the commission announced. In 22 other cases, a total of $17,250 was granted for purchase of homes or "other worthy purposes."

Donahey May Be Placed on Democratic Ticket

POLITICAL gossip in Washington is that Senator Vic Donahey of Ohio may be invited by the administration to be the Democratic candidate for Vice President next year. Mr. Garner, of course, can have a re-nomination if he really wants it, but there is some reason to believe that he would prefer to retire to private life after nearly forty years of public service. Donahey's impressive victory over Simeon Fess in 1932 and his well known vote-getting ability lead some prominent Democrats to think it would be wise to put him on the ticket as Mr. Roosevelt's running mate, especially as Ohio is considered a pivotal state of the Middle West where battle will be hot.

Here Is the Royal Family of Ethiopia

Going to Spain for a Big Fortune

Mr. and Mrs. Angel Tomas Correa of Washington, shown in their home reading the message that told them they are to go to Spain to lay claim to their share of the $109,000,000 fortune left by their great-grandfather fifty years ago. When Don Domingo Faustino Correa died he stipulated the money was not to be touched for half a century. Now it is ready to be divided. Correa, now an American lawyer, is of Puerto Rican extraction. His wife is the former Norma Billini of Metropolitan opera fame. They have three children.

Navajo Brave May Be Wed to Several Sisters

It is not unusual for a Navajo brave to be married to several sisters of the same family at the same time, according to Wick Miller, an authority on Indian arts and customs.

"That state of affairs is not objectionable to the Navajos," he said. "But they are extremely careful not to marry within their own clan. All in all, I would say their standards are higher than ours, and I believe they live up to their ideals, as a whole," better than white people. As the Navajos lead a wandering existence, their dwellings are emporary shelters. Wherever the Navajo is, he must be busy. Everybody has plenty to do. And everybody is happy.

SYNOPSIS

The youthful and comely "Widder" Marcia Howe has as her guest her late husband's niece, Sylvia Hayden. A stranger, on the verge of exhaustion, finds his way to Marcia's home. Secretly, he asks her to hide a package containing jewelry. She does so. Elisha Winslow, town sheriff, brings news of a jewel robbery nearby. The stranger gives his name as Stanley Heath. Sylvia discovers the jewels, and naturally believes Heath is a robber. She realizes that Marcia must have hidden them, and decides to say nothing. Marcia feels she has altogether too deep an interest in her guest, but is powerless to overcome it. Heath wires "Mrs. S. C. Heath," New York, saying he is safe. He also orders a man named Currier to come at once. Sylvia, in her room, bedecks herself with the jewels. At Marcia's approach she hides them there. Heath asks Marcia to bring them to him. They are gone! He kindly makes light of the loss. Sylvia restores the jewels to their original hiding place. Elisha Winslow, visiting Marcia, discovers the gems and has no doubt they are the stolen gems, and that Heath is the thief. Leaving the jewels, he makes plans for arresting Heath. Currier arrives. Marcia overhears Heath describe how he acquired the gems, and is forced to believe him guilty of theft. At Heath's suggestion, Currier investigates the hiding place—and finds the gems! He returns to New York with them, but his many references to "Mrs. Heath" have convinced Marcia her tender dream has been a foolish one.

CHAPTER VIII

In spite of Elisha's indignation toward Stanley Heath, and his resolve to go to the Homestead with the break of dawn, it was noon before he and Eleazer got under way.

In the first place, the two men disagreed as to the proper method of arresting the alleged criminal.

"You can't take him on no warrant, 'Lish," Eleazer objected. "'cause you ain't actually got proof he's guilty."

"Proof? Ain't I got a clear case? Ain't I roundin' him up with the loot on him?" blustered Elisha.

"P'raps—p'raps you didn't really see the jewels," Eleazer quavered. "Are you plumb certain you saw them things?"

"Certain?"

"Come, come! Don't go up in the air, 'Lish. I ain't doubtin' your word. I just want to make sure we don't take no mis-steps an' make jackasses of ourselves." Eleazer explained. "Have you got everythin'?"

"I—I—guess so," Elisha said weakly.

"Pete fixed up your badge in great shape, didn't he?" was Eleazer's cheerful comment. "It's bright as a new dollar. Anybody could see it a mile away. An' the handcuffs, too—they look grand. Wal, what do you say to our settin' out?"

The stroll to Crocker's Cove was not a hilarious one. With each successive step Elisha's spirits dropped lower and lower.

At last they came within sight of the bay.

"Where'd you leave the boat?" Eleazer questioned.

"I pulled her up opposite the fish-shanty."

"She ain't here."

"My soul an' body! What's to be done now?"

"I reckon we'll just have to give it all up," the sheriff responded with a sickly grin. "Call it off."

"An' let the thief escape? No sir—ee! We've got to go through with this thing now we've started if it takes a leg. We'll walk round by the shore."

In high dudgeon the two men plodded through the sand, its grit seeping into their shoes with every step.

It was not until they came within sight of the Homestead that the silence between them was broken.

"Wal, here we are!" Eleazer announced more genially.

"Yez—here—here we are!" his comrade panted. "My soul an' body—what a tramp! I'm near dead! Wait a minute, Eleazer. Let's take 'count of stock an' decide how we're goin' to proceed. We've got to make a plan."

"But we've made a plan a'ready. After you've knocked at the door an' gone in—"

"I knocked an' gone in?"

"Yes, yes," Elisha repeated. "After that, you'll sorter state the case to Marcia, 'xplainin' why we've come an' everythin'—"

"An' what'll you be doin' meantime?" Eleazer inquired, wheeling sharply.

"Me? Why, I'll be waitin' outside, kinder loiterin' 'till it's time for me to go in—don't you see?"

"I don't. I think 'twould be better wes you to go ahead an' pave the way for me. That's how it's done in plays. Some kinder unimportant person goes first an' afterward the hero comes in."

"So you consider yourself the hero of this show, do you?" commented Eleazer sarcastically.

"Ain't I?"

"Wal, you don't 'pear to me to be. Who egged you on an' marched you here—answer me that? If you ain't the most ungrateful cuss alive! I've a big half mind to go back home an' leave you to do your arrestin' alone."

"Don't do that, Eleazer, don't do that!" Elisha begged. "Don't go home an' leave me—now—at the last minute."

"Very well," Eleazer agreed magnificently. "Then I'll remain an' give you my moral support."

Elisha got up and, dragging one foot after the other, moved toward the house.

"Now knock," commanded the dictator.

Tremulously Elisha tapped on the door.

No answer came.

"Knock, I tell you! That ain't knockin'. Give the door a good smart thump so'st folks'll hear it an' be made aware somethin' important's goin' on. I'll show you."

Eleazer gave the door a spirited bang.

"Law, Eleazer! A rap like that would wake the dead," Elisha protested. "I hear somebody. Stand by me, Eleazer. Where are you goin'? Come back here, can't you? You promised—"

"I didn't promise to go in first. You was to do that," Eleazer called from his vantage ground round the corner.

"But—but—" Elisha whimpered.

The door swung open, and Marcia stood upon the sill.

"Why, Elisha!" she exclaimed. "How you startled me. Come in. You're all dressed up, aren't you? Have you been to a funeral?"

"No. I—we—"

The sheriff cleared his throat.

"Me an' Eleazer—" he began.

"Eleazer? Did he come with you?" Elisha nodded.

"Isn't he coming in?"

"Yes—yes. He's comin' presently."

"Well, 'sit down and tell me the news."

His dignity, his pomposity put to rout Elisha, feeling very small indeed, backed into the nearest chair.

"You won't mind if I go on with my baking, will you?" Marcia said, bustling toward the stove. "I'm makin' dried apple turnovers. They'll be done in a second and you shall have one. I guess a nice hot apple turnover won't go amiss."

With deftness she whisked a triangle of flaky pastry onto a plate and extended it toward her guest.

He sat down with the plate in his lap.

He had taken only an introductory mouthful, however, when the door parted a crack and Eleazer crept cautiously through the opening.

For a moment he stood transfixed,

"Arresting Folks?" Marcia Repeated.

then he burst out in a torrent of reproach.

"'Lish Winslow, what on earth are you doin'? Here I've been waitin' outside in the wind, ketchin' my death of cold, an' you settin' here by the stove rockin' an' eatin' pie!"

"I know, Eleazer, I know," Elisha stammered. "It may, mebbe, seem queer to you. I just hadn't got round to the business in hand, that's all. I'm comin' to it in time. I've made a start. I was just leadin' up to it in a sorter tactful way."

"There ain't no way of bein' tactful when you're arrestin' folks. You've got the thing to do an' you have to go straight to it."

"Arresting folks?" Marcia repeated, looking from one man to the other.

"Yes. Since 'Lish is so spineless at his job, I may's well tell you what we come for. Pretty kind of a sheriff he is."

"You better look out, Eleazer Crocker, how you insult an officer of the law," Elisha bawled angrily. "Say a word more an' I'll hail you into court."

"If you don't land me there faster'n you do Heath I shan't worry," jeered Eleazer.

"Heath? Mr. Heath?" Marcia repeated.

"Yes. We come over here this mornin' to place Mr. Stanley Heath under arrest," Eleazer announced.

The woman caught at the edge of the table. Her mind worked rapidly. She must gain time—worm out of them how much they knew.

"Of what are you accusing Mr. Heath?" she demanded.

"Of the Long Island robbery," Eleazer answered.

"You mean to say you think him a thief?"

"We know he's one—leastways Elisha does."

"I—yes! I'm tol'able sure. I have evidence," Elisha replied. "At least I figger I have."

"Shucks, 'Lish!" Eleazer cried. "Where's your backbone? You figger you have! Don't you know it? Ain't you beheld the loot with your own eyes?"

Elisha nodded.

"Then why on earth don't you stand up in your boots an' say so?"

The door opened and Sylvia entered, then stopped, arrested on the threshold by the sound of angry voices.

Inquiringly she looked from Marcia to the men, and back again.

Marcia, with whitened lips but with face grave and determined, remained with her back to the stairway door, her eyes never leaving Elisha Winslow's. There was something in her face Sylvia had never seen there—a light of battle; a fierceness as of a mother fighting for her child; a puzzling quality to which no name could be given.

Suddenly, as the girl studied her, recognition of this new characteristic flashed upon her understanding. It was love!

Anger, perhaps terror, had forced Marcia into betraying a secret no other power could have dragged from her.

"What proof have you?" Marcia demanded.

Elisha shifted from one foot to the other.

"I've seen the jewels," he whispered. "They're here—in this room, under that brick. I've seen 'em."

With finger pointing dramatically toward the hearth, Elisha strode forward.

Sylvia, however, sprang before him, standing 'twixt him and his goal.

"What a ridiculous story, Mr. Winslow!" she cried. "What a fantastic yarn! Do you imagine for one moment there could be anything hidden under those bricks and Marcia and I not know it? Why, one or the other of us has been in this room every instant since Mr. Heath arrived. When could he get the chance to hide anything? There is nothing here, Mr. Winslow, truly there is nothing. I swear it."

"Nevertheless, let him look, Sylvia. Let them both look."

"Please—please, Marcia—!"

Sylvia was upon her knees now on the hearth, and the men, hesitating to remove her by force, halted awkwardly.

Marcia regarded her first with startled incredulity—then with coldness.

So Sylvia loved Heath, too!

She was fighting for him—fighting with all her feeble strength.

A pang wrenched the older woman's heart.

What if Heath had played a double game—made love to Sylvia as he had made love to her? If so—if the man were a mountebank the sooner they both found it out—the sooner the world knew it, the better.

If, on the other hand, he was innocent, he should have his chance.

The older woman went to the side of the pleading figure.

"Get up, Sylvia," she said. "The sheriff must search. He must do his duty. We have no right to prevent it."

Her face was pale, her lips tightly set.

The brick was lifted out.

A smothered cry escaped Sylvia and was echoed.

"Why—land alive—there's nothin' here!" gasped the sheriff.

"I told you there was nothing!" Sylvia taunted, beginning to laugh hysterically.

"Wal, 'Lish, all I can say is you must either 'a' been wool gatherin' or dreamin' when you conceived this yarn," Eleazer jeered.

"I warn't," hissed Elisha, stung to the quick. "I warn't dreamin'. Them jewels was there. I saw 'em with my own eyes. I swear to heaven I did." He confronted Sylvia. "They was there, young lady, warn't they? You know they was. That's why you was so scairt for me to look. You've seen 'em. Deny it if you dare."

"Of course I deny it."

"Humph! But Marcia won't. You can lie if you want to save the skin of that good-for-nothin' critter upstairs—though what purpose is served by your doin' it I can't see. But Marcia won't. If she says them jewels warn't here I'll believe it. Come now, Marcia. Was there ever diamonds an' things under this brick or warn't there?"

"Yes."

"You saw 'em?"

As if the admission was dragged from her, Marcia formed, but did not utter, the word:

"Yes."

"There! Then I ain't gone daffy! What I said was true," Elisha acclaimed, rising in triumph and snapping his finger at Eleazer.

"The jewels were Mr. Heath's. He hid them for safe keeping."

"A likely story! He stole 'em—that's what he did."

"Prove it," challenged Marcia, with sudden spirit, a spot of crimson burning on either cheek.

"Prove it?" Elisha was taken aback. "Wal, I can't at the moment do that. I can't prove it. But even if I can't, I can make out a good enough case against him to arrest him on suspicion. That's what I mean to do—that's what I come for an' what I'll do 'fore I leave this house."

"Mr. Heath is sick."

"I guess he ain't so sick but what I can go up an' cross-examine him."

"I ask you not to go. I forbid it."

"Law, Marcia!"

"I forbid it," repeated the woman. "Drop this matter for a day or two, Elisha. Mr. Heath shall not leave the house. I promise you that. Leave him here in peace until he is well again. When he is able to—to—go with you I will telephone. You can trust me. When have I ever been false to my word?"

"I don't see why the mischief you're so crazy to stand 'twixt this Heath chap an' justice, Marcia. The feller's a scoundrel. That's what he is—an out an' out scoundrel. Not only is he a thief but he's a married man who's plottin' behind your back to betray you—boastin' openly in telegrams he is."

"What do you mean?"

"I wouldn't like to tell you. In fact I couldn't. 'Twould be repeatin' what was told me in confidence," hedged Elisha, frightened by the expression on the woman's face.

"I have a right to know about the telegrams you mention. Will you tell me or shall I call up the Sawyer Falls operator?"

Cat Chooses to Die in Burial Parlor

Columbus, Ind.—A cat at Edinburg evidently had a sense of the fitness of things. It walked in at the rear door of an undertaking establishment, looked about for a moment, then stretched itself on the floor and died.

SCIENCE BAFFLED; LAD TREADS ON FIRE

None Can Offer Explanation of How Feat Was Done.

London.—A demonstration of fire walking as practiced by natives at religious ceremonies in India and elsewhere was given without any one's being able to offer any explanation of how the feat was performed.

Kuda Bux, a young Indian weighing about 120 pounds, asserted his ability to perform the fire walking ceremony on the strength of his faith that the fire would not harm him.

Without suffering any injury that could be detected by the doctors and scientists present, he walked barefooted twice over a fire in two trenches 12 feet long and 6 feet wide, the surface heat of which was found to be 800 degrees Fahrenheit.

Two medical students who attempted to emulate Bux's feat were severely burned after a couple of steps and had to jump to safety.

Th materials used in preparing the fire included seven tons of oak logs, one ton of firewood, one load of forest burnt oak and charcoal and ten gallons of kerosene. When the demonstration was given the fire had been burning for eight hours.

Bux's feet made contact with the burning embers for five seconds on each step. Before and after each walk his feet were examined by Prof. C. A. Pannet, director of the surgical unit at St. Mary's hospital, London, who found no scorching or other trace of injury.

Under the arch of Bux's right foot Professor Pannet had placed a piece of court plaster, but even that was not scorched, while the recorded temperature of the feet was the same as before the experiment.

Bux declared that he was not conscious of the heat as he walked over the fire, although he appeared to be as susceptible to heat as others when standing near it. Professor Pannet said that there was no unusual toughness or thickening of the soles of Bux's feet.

"Pauper" Dies; Find Wad Hidden in His Clothing

Chicago.—Dead, a supposed pauper in the County hospital. Yet he had $4,000 sewed in the lining of his clothing.

Charles Sweeney of 6136 South California avenue, retired policeman, recently identified the body of the supposed pauper as that of his brother, John Sweeney.

The money was a mystery to Charles and when he was told that a bank book indicated that he may have had $4,200 more in a bank, the brother was dumfounded, saying:

"I don't think he ever had a good job. He would wash windows or shovel coal. But he never held a job long. He preferred to hang around Madison street 'flophouses.' I hadn't seen him for a long time. He told me when we met last that he had money, but I didn't believe him."

The brother was found by Policeman Thomas Brennan after a search of the police retired list disclosed a Charles Sweeney.

John Sweeney had told hospital attaches that he had such a brother, but he had told so many other bogus stories that they did not believe him. He died of pneumonia.

Dog Locked in Office Barks Into Telephone

Martins Ferry, Ohio.—Locked in a mine office, a police dog knocked over a telephone, shook the receiver hook with his paw and barked until he was released. The telephone operator at the Wheeling Steel corporation switchboard saw a light flash from the company's coal mine office and heard the dog bark.

Shortly thereafter word came from the mine office that a strange dog had been locked in by mistake. It was released.

Ghost Tale Proves to Be Tramp's Shirttail!

Sandusky, Ohio.—"Doesn't that look like a ghost to you? Capt. Henry V. Ringholz asked his companion Officer Patrolman Grathwol as they were cruising past Oakland cemetery at dawn. A chase and subsequent capture revealed the "ghost" to be Jim Grady, an itinerant—clad only in a shirt. "Somebody stole everything but my shirt," Grady told the officers who took him to headquarters and re-outfitted him.

CALIFORNIA PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPO CLOSES

Monday night at 12:30, San Diego's 1935 Exposition came to a close in a blaze of glory with an enthusiastic throng of nearly 80,000 visiting the Exposition on its last day of operation.

This Exposition has been as a ray of optimism brought to a triumphant success and conclusion, for it has been the means of bringing to San Diego and other California cities, thousands of people who have previously not visited this state.

Those who saw the possibilities of this great attraction before its building was commenced, are to be congratulated on their foresight and enthusiastic work for a public cause.

Nearly five million people went thru the turnstiles of the Fair, enjoyed the exhibits, and were loud in praise of the artistic beauty and setting of flowers and trees which are to be found in every corner of beautiful Balboa park.

While some have thought the Exposition detracted from the Beach attractions the past summer, yet we have profited, for every available house has been rented during the past six months, with a waiting list ready even now to rent a home here and remain just as long as their means or occupations will permit. The peak seasonal business of August was not as great as a beach community would like, but the average of the whole summer for most all has been greater and continues steady into the winter season.

Ocean Beach business people and the North Shore district should take advantage of the opportunity they now have of making regular customers of those who are with us, as well as to make plans to receive their end of an added influx which will continue as the Exposition reopens January 15 to continue until September 9, 1936.

* * * *

The lure for California continues to draw tourists from all quarters of the globe; and some of them can't get here soon enough, so they come by airplane! This is substantiated by gains from all airplane service headquarters, with almost 100 per cent increase in the past six months. Likewise rail and steamship travel has surprisingly increased. California abounds in opportunity, be it ever so small. It is said that they who start in a small way, have a better chance to grow; and that may be good advice for the one who seeks the objective of right effort. All work is honest if legitimate and noble whether it is that of digging ditches or administrating the affairs of the nation. No one need be ashamed of having to take needful human footsteps, or to serve in the humbler vocations of life. When he shall have proved, through demonstration, his readiness for a larger or more important sphere of activity, the place or position will seek and find him. The real objective of all right effort is to translate human thought and emergy into honorable gain for the good of men and the world's weal. California has the opportunity—give us men and women who can improve it.

Irene Rich Gives Pointers On Eating For Health And Beauty

By Mabel Love

IRENE RICH, the well-known star of the stage and screen, is an actress who is regarded as one of the real marvels of her profession for although she is the mother of two grown-up daughters she still manages to preserve the face and figure of a girl of twenty.

Much of the credit for this, she says, must be given to the fact that her diet has always been carefully planned—but this does not mean that she subsists on the unappetizing combinations of foods that the diet faddists sometimes prescribe. One of her secrets is that she has learned to adapt the serving of tasty dishes to the principles of a healthful diet.

Her two underlying principles of eating for health and beauty, Miss Rich says, are to select the foods which provide the system with the means of creating new cells and supporting life, and those which aid the system in carrying off all body waste through the normal channels.

Below is a delicious ginger cake recipe which she furnishes with the assurance that it is healthful as well as delicious, for the bran supplies the "bulk" which normal people need in order to live up to the second of the two principles which this charming celebrity includes in her dietary creed.

Irene shows a professional chef how she makes her bran ginger cake.

Bran Ginger Cake

1/3 cup shortening
1/2 cup brown sugar
1 egg (well beaten)
1/2 cup molasses
1 cup all-bran
1 1/2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 teaspoons ginger
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 cup buttermilk or sour milk

Cream shortening and sugar. Add egg, molasses and all-bran. Sift dry ingredients and add alternately with the milk. Bake in a moderate oven (375° F.) for about 30 to 40 minutes. Makes one cake 8 by 8 inches.

WALNUT CONSUMPTION AIDED BY SAFEWAY-MAC MARR DRIVE

California's walnut industry, confronted with one of its largest crops in years, will be aided by Safeway-MacMarr Stores, Inc., in stimulating consumption of its products during an intensive pre-holiday season, producer-consumer benefit campaign, November 11 to 16.

The campaign is waged througout the entire Safeway-MacMarr organization, and it is anticipated that more than a quarter million pounds of walnuts and other varieties of nuts will be moved into consumption.

Milton Heller, local manager of Safeway-MacMarr stores, Inc., said that the facilities of the company in 21 states, comprising more than 3,000 stores, would be used to help increase the consumption of walnuts.

LOMAN GRIDDERS LOSE TO LA JOLLA 14 TO 0

Fighting valiantly to the bitter end, the Point Loma High school team was defeated 14-0, by the Metropolitan league-leading La Jolla High team, last Friday, on the Viking field.

Point Loma's fighters for the most part played a great game, actually outplaying the La Jolla team although the ball was in Loman territory most of the time. The Vikings displayed greater speed and sharper wits, but they won the game only after a genuine battle.

After having been held scoreless during the first half by a supposed push-over team, the La Jolla gridders began to realize that Point Loma would not give up. It was evident by the play in this half that only a lucky break would decide the victor.

La Jolla got their break in the third quarter, when Silveth, Viking end, grounded a La Jolla punt on the Point Loma 1 yard line. Penwarden, Viking half, blocked Lutes' attempt to punt out of the danger zone, and a team mate, Lewis, fell on the ball behind the Loman goal. Penwarden's try-for-point was good Score: La Jolla, 7; Point Loma, 0.

Midway in the fourth quarter, Bancroft, Viking full, took a punt on his own 45, and scampered behind nice interference all the way to a touchdown. Penwarden again converted. Final score: La Jolla, 14; Point Loma, 0.

Carl Jensen, 4830 Newport avenue Ocean Beach, won the first prize in the snapshot contest started by the San Diego Evening Tribune.

Previous to winning the Eastman prize, Carl won the award made first by the Tribune, second by Los Angeles. The snap was then sent to the Eastman Kodak Co. in Washington, D. C. They selected it for the fifty dollar prize.

The subject was Carl's little sister petting a cat.

Carl is much interested in photography and has his own developing set. He has been working on pictures for about a year. He is a student in the low nine at Point Loma Junior High.

Plans are being made for a series of Saturday night dances at the Ocean Beach Elementary school, beginning on Saturday November 23. They will be held alternate Saturday evenings thereafter.

A very nominal charge will be made for a season ticket good for the five dances, provided it is possible to complete arrangements thru WPA. for necessary music.

The dances will be sponsored by the Associated Student body, the PTA and the school administrators.

—PLHS—

A Rally Football dance will be held Friday evening 8 to 11 o'clock at the Ocean Beach Elementary school.

A. S. B. Activity cards will admit their owners. Tickets will be sold at school for those who do not have an A. S. B. card.

Sponsors will be Mr. and Mrs. Clarence R. Swenson; Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Williams; Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Purdy; and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Beerkle.

The San Diego Army & Navy Academy's, fifteen piece orchestra has kindly consented to furnish the music. This undoubtedly will be one of the largest dances of the year.

—PLHS—

Grade slips will be given out Monday, November 18. This marks the end of the first quarter.

Fewer written warnings have been sent this year. Most of the warnings on grades have been verbal. When a student is given a written notice, the parent may be informed that the matter is extremely serious.

By carefully checking with teachers at the end of the first quarter; many semester failures may be avoided if remedial measures are started.

"Once in a Lifetime" a hilarious satire on Hollywood, will be produced under the direction of the stage crew of Point Loma High school. There is a cast of twenty-four principals. It is entirely a student enterprise, and the staging is completely original.

Philip Faulconer is in charge of the stage designs. Two outstanding sets will be the gold room of Hotel Stilton and the reception room of the Glogauer Studios. The usual movement about a hotel will give a very fine opportunity for a fashion parade as well as the parade of the stars, with all their affectations.

Special emphasis on the lighting will create a glamorous effect. A brilliant performance is expected. A double cast will present the play two nights, January 16 and 17.

Working on a stage only twenty feet deep, Point Loma has been able to present some very spectacular performances, such as "Why the Chimes Rang", "Christmas Carol", "The Mikado" and "Rosamunde". All of the productions included a cast of two hundred students.

Robert Burwick is in charge of posters. Costumes are to be designed by Faye Emerson and Margaret Freeman.

The scenes:

Act I Scene I A room in the West Forties, New York.
Scene II A pullman car.
Scene III The Gold Room of the Hotel Stilton, Los Angeles.
Act II Reception Room of the Glogauer Studio.
Act III Scene I On the set.
Scene II The Pullman car.
Scene III The reception room.

The stage crew includes: Stage manager, Rothero; electrician, Tank; Lord; floor, Maurer; carpenter, Davis; flies, Reich; props, Froide; dressing rooms, Howard; make-up, Albrecht; costume, Schneidar; design Emerson; secretary, Pielop.

Emery Shepherd, drama coach at Point Loma, is noted for the very fine work he achieves with the students.

PTA SEWING SCHOOL WEDNESDAY

Jimmy Dalton has recently moved to Arizona.

Ardys Ann Wadsworth of Mission Beach entered our school this week. She is in the second grade.

Our swimming class is growing each week.

Every child is busy getting his costume ready for the Thanksgiving program.

For those who do not have sewing machines in their own homes, sewing classes are being carried on in the Ocean Beach school cafeteria. Cutting tables, mirror, hot iron, and experienced supervision by Mrs. Louise Williams, on Wednesdays, 9 to 4, should prove satisfying. Also Miss Eichbaum is helping create Xmas stationery and Xmas cards and stencils from linoleum blocks on Wednesdays.

Many mothers are taking advantage of this atmosphere in which to work while their children play on the school grounds. This opportunity is open to anyone interested.

CHURCHES OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST

A Lesson-Sermon on "Mortals and Immortals" will be presented on Sunday in all Christian Science churches, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

A Bible selection presents these verses from Paul's epistle to the Romans: "Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? shall tribulation, or distress, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or peril, or sword? . . . Nay, in all these things we are more than conquerors through him that loved us. For I am persuaded, that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord."

Among the correlative citations from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, are the passages: "The spiritual man's consciousness and individuality are reflections of God. They are the emanations of Him who is Life, Truth, and Love. . . . God, the divine Principle of man, and man in God's likeness are inseparable, harmonious, and eternal."

WANCA HUTA GROUP No. 1

The meeting was held in the evening last Friday at our guardian, Mrs. MacCausland's home. Plans were discussed for a hike to be held Nov. 23rd. It was announced that the meeting would be held once more in the evening, next Friday from 7 till 9 o'clock.

The dinner held November 2 was a great success. Miss Dively the Camp Fire executive was invited. All of the girls were at Mrs. MacCausland's home early in order to cook the meal and decorate the house.

THE THEOSOPHICAL SOCIETY: POINT LOMA

The speaker at Theosophical Headquarters, Point Loma, Sunday, November 17, at 3 p. m., will be W. Emmett Small, associate editor, 'The Theosophical Forum'. His subject will be: 'Citizens of the Universe'. "The time has long passed", declares Mr Small, "when we should permit a national patriotism to blind us to the realization that our greater home is the boundless Universe. It is only the man who doesn't think who is conceited enough to imagine that this little earth of ours is the only inhabited globe in space. Science will tell you that it is but a pin-point in the cosmos. True. Is that pin-point of life then the only living, intelligent bit of matter that exists? Absurd. Theosophy upholds the ancient law of analogy which declares: As it is above, so it is below. And it is by conscientious study of life here on this globe that we may learn the secrets of life elsewhere. Nay, could we delve deep into the life, the inner consciousness, of man, a denizen of this Earth, we would there find the occult truth about the other spheres. For man is builded of the essences of universal Nature. Sun, Moon, Planets, Stars, have lent their energies their substances to build him. Therefore is he an offspring of the Universe, even as a babe is a child of its mother, partaking of all that the parent has. The teachings regarding the circulations of the Cosmos and man's adventures along them after death—a journey consciously made by the adapt in life—belong to some of the intricate and deeper lore that the Ancient Wisdom is giving forth anew at the present time thru the Theosophical Society. If these teachings did no more than to expand one's outlook on life, helping one to throw overboard outworn crystallized ideas, that in itself would be a grand thing, for it would leave men's hearts and minds free for something fresh and inspiringly new. The idea of war would soon disappear in the realization of our scientific brotherhood in the universal family of life. We need not forget our national duties, but they may be enhanced by a realization that we are truly citizens of the Universe."

AMERICAN LEGION

AMERICAN LEGION NO. 433 and AUXILIARY

The Ocean Beach post and auxiliary, American Legion, wishes to express their deepest appreciation to the merchants of Ocean Beach, and San Diego, who so generously cooperated with us and made it possible for us to place our float in the Armistice Day parade. The wrecked automobile bearing the warning "Drive Carefully or THIS IS THE RESULT", represents the community betterment activity this post is making its project for this year and it is hoped that all safety minded people will cooperate with us. The following merchants and individuals were responsible for the success and honorable mention we received from the judges:

Richley's Hardware store, truck; Ocean Beach Lumber Co., planks; Eugene Taylor, 2243 Abbott St., artist, signs; Ballard & Brockett, dummy; and The McHenry Wrecking Co., 888 India St. wreck.

This is to remind everybody that on Thursday, November 21, this post and auxiliary will hold their monthly card party at which time the Thanksgiving bird, a big capon, will be given to the holder of the lucky number, as well as many other real prizes for bridge and 500. All Legionneires and their friends are cordially inivted to attend. The time will be 8 o'clock.

The Armistice Day association of the American Legion wishes to express appreciation to the following who so kindly allowed us to place tickets with them: Richley's Hardware, Kraft Drug store. The Ocean Beach News, Gus' Place and the Sunnyside Market.

The sale of tickets this year was most gratifying.

The kindergarten group has begun its Indian project which will be ended with a portrayal of the first Thanksgiving.

51 WORKERS EMPLOYED AT GOODWILL IN OCTOBER

Rev. Myron Insko, of Ocean Beach, who is superintendent of the San Diego County Goodwill Industries, in reporting to his directors on the work of the organization for the month of October, states that four new high records were made last month. The store sales were the largest in the history of the organization, the number of workers was one in excess of those in any previous month (fifty-one in all), the payroll was the largest and more truck calls were made than ever before. The last was made possible by the purchase of a new truck in Sept.

The number of customers in the Goodwill store in October was 4785, thrifty folk who thus not only secured necessities of life for themselves at much less than they could be bought new for, but also permitted the organizatin by such purchases to increase its staff of workers and thus enlarge the beneficent industrial work which it is doing.

POULTRY HELPS.

By E. E. Steele.

Infectious bronchitis, influenza is another fall and winter disease of the respiratory organs of chickens and will cause the bird to die in from three to ten days, altho some birds recover if treatment is started at the first sign of the disease.

The symptom is usually a rattling noise caused by obstruction of the wind pipe, this obstruction also causes difficult breathing causing the bird to extend the head and open the beak for each respiration. The appetite diminishes and the bird becomes ruffled and unkept. Sticky exudates are present in the mouth and nasal cavity.

I find the mild cold (catarrh) spray effective in all the diseases of the respiratory organs, if used in the early stages.

In severe cases, individual treatment is to remove the dried exudative plug from the wind pipe and give the bird a gelatin capsule containing three drops each of beechwood creosote and oil of eucalyptus and six drops of castor oil, once a day.

U. S. Trees Healing Scars of Last War

Douglas Fir and the Sitka Spruce Thrive in Europe.

Washington.—Again the roll of the war drums is being heard on the other side of the world. In 1918 those drums had been stilled forever, so a great many people said. War-torn areas needed healing badly as did the peoples of the earth.

Americans had thrown their weight into the ending of the war. The healing of wounds was to be a longer process. So, on a January day in 1920, millions of American tree seeds, sacked and ready for shipment, were started from historic Boston common on their way to do their part toward healing the scars of earth. They were presented to the consuls of Great Britain, France, Italy and Belgium by Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Tree association.

These messengers of international good will, after the routine of germination under the watchful eye of foresters, were to find their way as seedlings not only to the battle areas but to the areas where forests had been cut down to meet the demands of war for timber supplies.

Heal War Scars.

Today those Douglas fir and Sitka spruce, millions upon millions of them, which made up the bulk of the first shipment and others that followed in the next four years, are standing in the mothering soil of other countries than their own. Reports received by the American Tree association tell of some of them 15 and 20 feet high and growing better than many native trees. They are thus doing their part admirably in healing the ground scars of the last war.

"Their girth does not bring them into a war market," said Mr. Pack in going over the reports he had received, "but they are doing the job for which they were intended; healing the scars of the last war. Soon they will have grown large enough for commercial use.

"These trees are now standing in France where forests were blasted by shell fire. They are standing in Belgium, too. They are growing in Great Britain where virtually every tree which could be transported was cut down for war needs.

"The British forestry commission reports the growth of the trees and where they are located. They dot the famous lake country in Scotland and areas along the Caledonian canal. They are growing in the forest of Dean in England on the border of North Wales. Other trees are thriving in the King George Jubilee forest in in Wales. The forest of Dean is the famous "crown property" and it was this forest which supplied timbers for English ships of war in the old days.

Do Well in Scotland.

"Locations of the plantings in Scotland read like an index of a Sir Walter Scott novel. Some of the trees are at Aboyne, Glengarry, South Laggan and Loch Katrine and dozens of other places. John Munro, the forester at Loch Katrine, reports Sitka spruce of 20 feet in height and Douglas fir nearly as high.

"At Inverness James Fraser of the commission reports the American trees follow the line of the famous valley to Onich. They are also thriving in many plantings in northern Ireland where the climatic conditions are similar to those where these species grow best in this country.

"The British forestry commission is now checking the plantings as it does every two years. The reports indicate the Sitka spruce has exceeded any European species in growth and the Douglas fir has done almost as well. The seed was gathered in the Pacific Northwest mostly on the coast side of the Cascade range."

Acrobat Proves His Vocation to Judge

Frankfort-on-Main. — "Accused," said the magistrate to a Rumanian, aged fifty-seven, who appeared before a police court here for being disorderly, "what is your profession?"

"A acrobat."

"That sounds improbable to me."

The Rumanian promptly threw himself into the air and, clasping the edge of the dock with his hands, raised his feet above his head. He stood poised on his hands while applause broke out on the public bench.

SMASHING STANDARDS

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

Nature is vocal with her decree—obedience is liberty. Some persons think otherwise. To enjoy liberty we must be free to do as we please. Restraint curtails freedom. The way to liberty is not by subjecting one's self to standards but by disregarding them, smashing them, if necessary. Strange philosophy, this, and yet it is surprising to know how large a group of persons honestly believe it. They confuse two kinds of liberty, the false where one is free to do as he pleases and true liberty where he is free to do what he ought. The freedom of some is like the freedom of the herd of swine that ran violently down a steep hill and were drowned in the sea. In the final analysis there is no true liberty worth having which is not "liberty under law."

We have a fixed standard of time to which every person is expected to conform. My watch may be an hour slow and I refuse to set it according to the established standard time. Will a train wait for me until I arrive according to my time? The signal light is red and yet I choose to smash the signal and go through. An accident occurred. Who's fault was it? Let the judge tell. We cannot dismiss dangers by imagining they do not exist.

Perils do not disappear because we refuse to be conscious of them. Smashing danger signals does not make the road safe for traffic.

In the moral and spiritual world this same truth abides. No person can go on smashing fixed moral norms and expect to get away with it. Our jails are full of persons who tried this very thing. There may be a certain thrill experienced in "putting is over on the other fellow" through fraudulent practices, but the fangs of the poison soon prick our own flesh. We ourselves ultimately pay the penalty. Smashing standards is very dangerous business. I cannot go through the red light but at a tremendous risk. It is easy for the captain to direct his ship in calm waters, but let a storm strike the sea and it is a very different story. He knows that so long as he conforms to established rules of navigation he is reasonably safe, but the moment he smashes those rules his ship is headed for the rocks. The liberty of a private person is being master of his own action so far as it interprets fixed and time tested norms. Ultimate freedom depends not on smashing standards but in complying with them.

Old Autos Are Sold to Museum of Lumberman

Duluth, Minn.—George A. Sloan of Duluth has sold two ancient automobiles to a Los Angeles museum being developed by a California lumberman. One car was a five-passenger International, the other a sporty one-seater made by an Ohio firm. They had been in storage for 15 or 20 years, Sloan said.

The Household

By Lydia Le Baron Walker

THERE are two groups of persons, one of which responds to propositions in the affirmative and the other which responds to those in the negative. We all know these types. If you make a request that requires "yes" as an answer, those in the first group will react favorably, while those in the second group immediately discover objections of one kind or another.

For example, let us put the question, "Can you come over for dinner tomorrow evening?" If the person belongs to the first group she will immediately endeavor to suit her plans to make it possible for an affirmative answer. To get this same result from a person in the second group you will have to say, "I suppose your time is so taken that you could not manage to have dinner with us tomorrow evening? The very hint that it might be impossible stirs the thoughts to clear objections away. The reply would be in the negative, "No, I think I can manage it, and I would like to come." Acceptance would be gained, just as much as if the question required to be answered in the affirmative.

Children's Reactions.

This trait is discovered at an early age in children. It is pleasant when parents realize that they can make a request and it will be favorably received. Also, it is something of a disappointment when it is discovered that objections must be forestalled by suggesting a desire in the child not to do the thing. It requires tact and prolonged patient endeavor on the part of the parents to help the child to meet the demands of the world with a wish to accede to kindly propositions.

In speaking thus, there is no intention of making a "Yes person" of the child. There are many times and occasions when the right answer is in the negative. This is part of life's lessons to be learned, when to say "yes" and when to say "no." But when the agreeable affirmative reply is in accord with right living, and courteous friendliness, it is like a rebuff to have a negative response.

It remains a fact, however, that persons in a family, in a society or social set, in business and the world of affairs, have to be broached according to their trend of minds. To succeed in getting desired results in any instance, the way is prospered by the manner of approach, either by the roundabout and somewhat complicated way of negatives, or the straightforward and simple way of affirmatives.

Children and School.

The knowledge that children in school are doing the work they should under proper supervision is pleasant for parents, as also may be the appreciation of hours left free for home tasks during the children's absence. Even the quietness during such hours may prove beneficial to the adults in a family, especially when some member is aged. An unwelcome feature is the absence of children who attend schools away from home. A house can be strangely lonesome minus the youthful gaiety.

The renewing of studies is pleasant to more children than credit is given. They like to tackle the progressing studies. There is satisfaction in mastering them. Of course, there are sure to be favorite studies, and one or two that are actually disliked.

Marks will be higher in the former than the latter.

It is this group of children that have to be looked after well by parents, as they will be inclined to study more than they should and so be housed longer than is best for their health. The encouragement to play and exercise in the out-of-doors may have to be tactfully given unless it is stipulated to begin with that certain periods after school are to be devoted to this sort of thing, and encroachment on these hours is not to be permitted. Health is important, more so than high scholastic marks. This group of children does not require to be encouraged to study.

School Irksome.

There is another coterie of children, however, who find the confinement in school rooms very irksome. To these school is unwelcome. Interest in their studies has not yet been awakened, and unless they have a "born teacher" in command of the school room, they care little for progress. If they have this gifted kind of teacher, she will discover whether it is inertia, love of sports, or rebellion against restraint of any kind that is behind the desire to shirk studies.

These children have to be prodded continually to do their home work, but not to play. This latter is their special inclination. It is more difficult to get this group of children to study than it is to induce the studious group to play.

Nature's Ice Box O. K.; Keeps Food 33 Years

Nature's ice box has even the best of mechanical refrigerators skinned when it comes to food preservation. Keeping food in good condition for years is no trick at all for natural cold storage plants such as the Antarctic wastes. According to Dr. Dana Coman, physician and dietician for the Lincoln Ellsworth-Sir Hubert Wilkins expedition, food left in a shack in the South Polar region 33 years ago was found to be still edible when discovered. The long-preserved food supplies were left by a Norwegian explorer, Otto Nordenskjold, in 1902.—Washington Post.

I FEEL FINE

Mothers read this:

A CONSTIPATED child is so easily straightened out, it's a pity more mothers don't know the remedy.

A liquid laxative is the answer, mothers. The answer to all your worries over constipation. A liquid can be measured. The dose can be exactly suited to any age or need. Just reduce the dose each time, until the bowels are moving of their own accord and need no help.

This treatment will succeed with any child and with any adult.

Doctors use liquid laxatives. Hospitals use the liquid form. If it is best for their use, it is best for home use. And today, there are fully a million families that will have no other kind in the house.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a doctor's prescription, now so widely known that you can get it all ready for use at any drugstore.

Quick, Complete Pleasant ELIMINATION

Let's be frank. There's only one way for your body to rid itself of the waste matters that cause acidity, gas, headaches, bloated feelings and a dozen other discomforts—your intestines must function.

To make them move quickly, pleasantly, completely, without griping. Thousands of physicians recommend Milnesia Wafers. (Dentists recommend Milnesia wafers as an efficient remedy for mouth acidity).

These mint flavored candy-like wafers are pure milk of magnesia. Each wafer is approximately equal to a full adult dose of liquid milk of magnesia. Chewed thoroughly in accordance with the directions on the bottle or tin, then swallowed, they correct acidity, bad breath, flatulence, at their source and at the same time enable quick, complete, pleasant elimination.

Milnesia Wafers come in bottles of 20 and 48 wafers, at 35c and 60c respectively, or in convenient tins containing 12 at 20c. Each wafer is approximately an adult dose of milk of magnesia. All good drug stores carry them. Start using these delicious, effective wafers today.

Professional samples sent free to registered physicians or dentists if request is made on professional letter head.

LET JUNIOR MAKE OWN SIMPLE FROCK

PATTERN 9606

Lives there a Junior Miss who couldn't "fall" for this smart yet simple school frock? We just know she will want to make her first fall frock from this pattern, because it's so very easy to cut, assemble and stitch, and if Mother is too busy to supervise the operation, take the pattern and some pretty cotton to sewing class and work on it there. The youthful, square neck adopts a scarf-like collar to slip under its tab, the puffed sleeves have a hearty slash. Action pleats grace back bodice and skirt, a box pleat, the side front skirt.

Pattern 9606 may be ordered only in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14. Size 12 requires 2⅝ yards 36 inch fabric and ⅜ yard contrasting. Complete diagrammed sew chart included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., 232 West Eighteenth St., New York, N. Y.
